GOOGLE MAPPING API – UPDATE BILLING INFO

If your map stops working in SmartWare, chances are that your credit card info has expired for your Google API Billing account. The amount of usage always falls below the level at which any actual billing would occur; however, a current credit card is still required to be attached to a billing account for the API Credentials in your Google Account to stay activated. If it does not stay activated, the scheduling and map in SmartWare will no longer work correctly.

You may have gotten email notifications from Google in your Gmail account used to get the original API. The email will let you know that your billing account is about to expire.
